- Iva Čaleta Pleša, Senior Expert Adviser, Ministry of Tourism and Sport of Croatia

The economy of the Adriatic-Ionian region is heavily dependent on tourism which is characterised by high seasonality affecting employment, the environment and the availability of local services. One of the main priority goals of the Strategy remains the responsible management of tourism and tourist destinations.

Concepts like responsible tourism, green tourism products, digital and green transition, resilience are all part of the new narrative for tourism industry and society as a whole.

How can we effectively implement these concepts to create meaningful experiences for both local residents and tourists?

The workshop's objective is to openly discuss these topics through various group activities, open ended questions and conversations.
